

McLAUGHLIN COLLEGE

As part of our popular Lunch Talk Series, McLaughlin College Proudly Presents:

Common Read Skills for Success at University, Work and Life

Presented by:

PROF. THOMAS KLASSEN

In this session learn the four skills you need to succeed at university: communication, problem solving, teamwork and adaptability. Learn how to avoid the mistakes that first year students make. Discover how to mobilize professors to boost your success.

THOMAS KLASSEN is a professor and author who teaches about, and writes on, public policy and public administration and how to ensure students succeed. He has taught in a variety of programs, including the School of Public Policy and Administration, the IMBA at the Schulich School of Business, the Department of Political Science, and the Faculty of Health. He has also taught university courses in South Korea and Germany. More at:
