

FOUNDATIONS TA SEMINAR #1

Designing your Tutorial to Encourage Participation with your Learners

VS.

Dr. Natasha May is an Educational Developer in the Teaching Commons who oversees all programming and support for graduate students and TAs at York. She is also a contract faculty member who believes in learner-centred teaching and facilitating learning in her classroom instead of lecturing. She incorporates a variety of activities in her classes that help students to achieve the course learning outcomes. In this session, you will learn about one particular model you can use, and adapt, to help you design your tutorials to encourage participation. You will engage in activities that you can try out in the session and then adapt for your own tutorials.

All new and returning TAs in the Department of Social Science are welcome to attend. Join us!

12:30-2 pm Thursday Sept. 13, N829 Ross

All NEW first time Foundations TAs attending this session will be paid one hour compensation at the CUPE overload rate. You can be paid up to 7 hrs total for attending approved workshops.

This course counts towards the Record of Completion Certificate offered through the Teaching Commons. For more details, visit the Teaching Commons website.

Questions? Contact John Simoulidis, Foundations Coordinator, sims@yorku.ca