

McLAUGHLIN COLLEGE

As part of our popular Lunch Time Talk series McLaughlin College Proudly Presents:

The Election of Elections?

This year's election in the US is one of the most important in the country's history. One would have to go back 160 years to the election of November 6, 1860, won by Abraham Lincoln, to find a reasonable facsimile. Then, as now, America is divided into two opposing constituencies to the point where the future of the country is at stake. Our panel brings together some of York University's candid political minds to discuss the significance of this election.

MODERATOR:

PHILIP MACEWEN, teaches in the Departments of Philosophy and Humanities and is Coordinator of the York Collegium for Practical Ethics, York University.

HOST:

JAMES C. SIMEON, is Head of McLaughlin College and Associate Professor, School of Public Policy and Administration, York University.

PANELISTS:

ROBERT DRUMMOND, University Professor Emeritus, Department of Politics and School of Public Policy and Administration, York University.

IAN GREENE, University Professor Emeritus, School of Public Policy and Administration, York University.

DAVID LEYTON-BROWN, Professor Emeritus, Department of Politics, York University

STEPHEN NEWMAN, Associate Professor, Department of Political Science, York University
